MIRRORS

A FILM BY JONATHAN STEWART

In the middle of nowhere, as night falls, a man begins a mysterious ritual of total destruction. As he progresses, his whole life appears to turn to ashes. What else must he destroy before he can begin again?

“An enigmatic, accomplished tale of separation...very impressive.”

Josh Appignanesi, Director of Song of Songs & Ex Memoria

“A very elegant piece, brave in its simplicity. It left an afterglow!”

Rosie Alison, Heyday Films (producer of the Harry Potter films)

“Very, very impressive”

Nik Powell, Director of NFTS (and producer of Little Voice and The Crying Game)

“Very accomplished. Spare, bold, and very daring”

Gayle Griffiths, Wild Horses Films (producer of BAFTA-winning Kiss of Life, Alfred Dunhill UK Film Talent Award 2006)

“I loved Mirrors. Thought-provoking, beautifully shot and utterly compelling. I'd like to see Jonathan Stewart on a bigger stage”

Iain Hollingshead, journalist and author of recent best-seller Twenty Something

UK 2006 – S16mm – Stereo – 12 minutes
